

What is literacy?

Literacy is the ability to read, write, speak, compute, and use technology at a level that enables an individual to reach his or her full potential as a parent, employee, and community member.

Everyday tasks can be a struggle for those with low literacy skills. We serve adult men and women of all ages, nationalities, and economic and social backgrounds who long to improve their English.

How do I Support Letters for Literacy?

Letters for Literacy is a fundraising effort that lets businesses and organizations sponsor a letter of their choice from the alphabet. Sponsorships are tax deductible and for one fiscal year.

Benefits to your business/organization:

Supporting Sponsor - $250.00

- Receive a custom recognition frame of the letter for your office.
- Company/organization name and logo featured on our website.
- Increased visibility through press announcements and at various events.
- Acknowledgement on our Facebook page and in our online newsletters.
- Invitation to our Annual Tutor/Learner Recognition.

Major Sponsor - $500.00

Benefits of Supporting Sponsor level, plus a link directing people to your website.

Executive Sponsor - $750.00

Benefits of Supporting and Major Sponsor levels, plus top listing of the selected letter during the current fiscal year.

Sponsorship provides financial support for Adult and Family Literacy Programs that help nearly 300 adults each year throughout 16 northwest suburban Chicago communities.

Letters for Literacy is a smart investment in your local community. Together we can help local adults, ultimately improving our neighborhoods. Thank you for your support!

Support Tutor/Learner Teams

Dolores and Mary Ann have been working together for five years. Dolores and her family came to the U.S. in 2000 for a better life. It didn't take long before her children became proficient in English. Dolores struggled. She wanted to communicate better with her family, at work, and in her community. She is doing that now, thanks to her tutor, Mary Ann, and to supporters like you!
